Working together to stop child sexual abuse online

RECRUITMENT PACK

Corporate Income Manager

Working to stop child sexual abuse online

Protecting children is at the heart of everything we do. For 30 years, since the early days of the internet, our job has been to help victims of child sexual abuse by hunting down and removing the online record of the abuse.

It's a tough job. Our image analysts are amongst the best in the world. The children in the pictures are real. Their abuse and suffering is very real. Our experts never forget that.

The criminals who sexually abuse children, then record their suffering and share the horror online are ruthless. Sometimes they create images with audiences in mind. Victims range from babies to young teens. Abusers are often experienced at online grooming, skilled at manipulating young minds. Sometimes victims don't even realise they are being abused until it's too late.

Sadly, the internet makes it easier to share these images. We use advanced technology and human expertise to help young victims. If we can remove the record of suffering online and stop those images circulating, then we can stop the abuse being perpetuated. This makes the internet a safer place for all children and adults.

How we do this

- Our team of human analysts. Tech companies and law enforcement worldwide trust the assessments, experience and knowledge of our extraordinary team of people.
- Tech-for-good. Our in-house tech team build tools designed to make it easier to identify and remove online images and videos of child sexual abuse. In short, tech to protect kids.
- Working together. With international partners in government, law enforcement, reporting hotlines, charities and the tech community we work to stop illegal images of children being circulated again and again. We share vital information that could lead to the rescue of a child from terrible abuse.
- IWF Hotline. This gives people a safe and anonymous place to report online images and videos suspected to show the sexual abuse of children. Our team of dedicated Hotline Analysts work tirelessly to locate and seek the removal of criminal imagery making the internet safer and protecting survivors from repeated victimisation.

The children in the pictures are real. Their abuse and suffering is very real. Our experts never forget that.

Our Chair & CEO

The IWF sits at the forefront of fighting for victims of child sexual abuse. We're seen as global leaders, standard-setters, and team players. Our strong relationships with companies around the world have enabled us to carve a much-needed place to both protect children and provide the means by which industry partners can ensure that their websites, platforms, games, and online spaces are safer for us all.

Since 1996, the IWF's unmatched work and determination has led to the removal of millions of criminal images and videos from the open internet. Our datasets and services are used to protect more than 4bn online users and accounts globally.

We're trusted as an extremely safe pair of hands by governments, tech companies, law enforcement and other child protection non-profits.

This is possible because of the commitment and fortitude of the incredible IWF team. Every department from our front-line analysts to our People team, plays a critical role in helping us achieve our mission of a global internet free from child sexual abuse material.

Catherine Brown, Chair

Tracking down and identifying truly harmful child sexual abuse imagery is at the very core of what we do at the IWF.

We develop cutting-edge technologies, and work with some of the biggest tech companies on the planet - but without the skills, knowledge, and determination of our amazing staff, there is no way this vital work could be done.

Working at the IWF is not for everyone, but for our staff, knowing they have contributed to the removal of thousands of images and videos of child sexual abuse from the internet, helped prevent the future revictimisation of victims, and even helped rescue children from abusive, dangerous situations, makes this the most satisfying place to work in the world.

I'm proud to say I lead the team at the IWF. Every person, regardless of which department they are in, works with a sense of tireless determination and passion which is vital to delivering our mission.

Kerry Smith, CEO

Our vision

We're creating an internet free from child sexual abuse that is a safe place for children and adults to use around the world.

Our mission

We detect, disrupt, remove, and prevent online child sexual abuse material using our expertise and resources as effectively as possible.

The Internet Watch Foundation (IWF) is a child protection organisation, utilising ground-breaking tech to make the internet a safer place for children and adults across the world.

We're a not-for-profit organisation, supported by internet, tech and social media industries, private companies and the generosity of ordinary people.

We work closely with police, governments, the technology sector and NGOs globally, who trust our work.

Child sexual abuse images and videos are just as much a weapon as a knife. We actively search for this imagery and for the past 30 years, we've given people a safe place to report it to us, anonymously, now covering 54 countries.

We assess every report we receive. If it shows the sexual abuse of a child, we make sure the image or video is removed from the internet. We provide bespoke services, products and datasets to our industry Members to prevent the imagery from re-appearing and make it harder for offenders to find and share.
We care.

Our work relies on compassionate and resilient staff members, across diverse teams, including Analysts and Assessors in our Hotline, Finance, Admin, Communications and Technology, who are all highly trained and carefully looked after.

The children in these pictures and videos are real. The suffering captured in this imagery and the knowledge that it could be shared can haunt a victim for life.

That's why it's our mission to remove this material for good. And to show every child there is someone out there who cares enough to help.

Our values

It’s a huge responsibility to have the job of searching for, stopping, removing and preventing child sexual abuse imagery online.

We don’t take this lightly. Our values act as our backbone, our core strength, a guide and a reminder of the importance of our work. They are embedded in everything we do.

Being open and honest

- We treat every child victim of sexual abuse with the utmost and total respect;
- We always act with integrity and professionalism;
- We make sure our communications and actions are appropriate, true, transparent and accountable.

Being excellent

- Every day we strive to be the best in the world at what we do;
- We set the global standard of best practice;
- We build Tech-for-good tools to help defend child victims of sexual abuse. We make the internet a safer place, by:
- Protecting child survivors of sexual abuse from being victimised again and again. By stopping offenders sharing pictures and videos of the abuse online, we’re making it more difficult for these criminals to perpetuate the abuse;
- Preventing internet users from accidentally stumbling on child sexual abuse images and videos;
- We make it harder for criminals to find child sexual abuse imagery online, by disrupting the illegal sharing.

Being team players

- Working together is vital. We always acknowledge the importance of partnerships;
- We recognise, reward and celebrate our success and achievements. If we win, so do children.

Creating a caring and safe internal environment

- We respect, value and encourage individual contributions to our work and mission as well as those of our wider teams;
- A supportive environment is vital for people who work to protect children. We promote best-practice welfare for our staff who are committed to stopping the spread of child sexual abuse imagery;
- We encourage constant learning and personal development. It helps people thrive. It’s good for us all.

Building an inclusive culture

We are building an inclusive culture to make the IWF a place where our people feel valued, have a voice and can be their authentic selves.

We value difference and diversity, not only because we believe it is the right thing to do, but because it will help us to be more innovative and make better decisions.

We always aim to recruit people who are most suited to the job and encourage applications from people of all backgrounds – people of all ages, sexual orientations, gender identities, nationalities, religions and beliefs.

We fully support candidates with a disability or long-term condition who require adjustments during the recruitment process and throughout any subsequent appointment.

Anti-racism statement

IWF stands in unity with all who experience racism and discrimination. As a team, we are committed to better understanding the systemic racism and inequality that is experienced in the everyday lives of Black and minority ethnic people.

We affirm explicitly our commitment to being an anti-racism organisation. We acknowledge that racism causes significant harm and can be both conscious and unintentional. As an anti-racism organisation, we challenge ourselves to understand and correct any inequities we may discover and gain a better understanding of ourselves during this purposeful process.

Addressing racism requires courage, respect and compassion and may not always be or seek to be comfortable.

We have a zero-tolerance approach to racism and condemn all racist and discriminatory behaviour. We are committed to challenging and preventing structural racism within every aspect of our work.

We commit to:

- Affirm our identity, explicitly and publicly, as an anti-racism organisation;
- Employ individual and organisational exploration and examination of bias, advantage, and oppression to continually learn about and dismantle racism and all its impacts;
- Reflect our anti-racism in the culture of our organisation through our policies, procedures, and practices;
- Particularly encourage applications from Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic candidates.

Job purpose

We are seeking a commercially minded, ambitious and professional individual to join our Development department as Corporate Income Manager. To be successful, you must be able to quickly understand the priorities of businesses across technology, finance, online platforms and professional services, and translate IWF's expertise, data and impact into compelling partnerships that grow our income.

You will be a confident, strategic relationship builder with a persuasive manner, coupled with strong commercial awareness and a track record of meeting ambitious income targets.

You'll lead the conversion of existing IWF members into deeper, higher-value partnerships, while building a pipeline of new corporate prospects. You'll develop tailored propositions, lead pitches and negotiations, and manage a portfolio of senior corporate relationships through to renewal and growth.

Reporting to the Development and Income Director, you'll also manage and develop our Corporate Income Officer.

This is a target-driven role and the ability to manage a substantial pipeline and multiple relationships at once is a key requirement. You'll engage senior decision-makers regularly, so credibility, sound judgement and a strong network are essential, and in return you'll see your work directly fund the protection of children online.

You could come from the charity, corporate, technology or finance sector. Wherever you've built your experience, what matters most is your passion to do good and your drive to grow the support that powers our mission.

Main responsibilities

Corporate new business and acquisition

- Lead the identification, qualification and conversion of existing members into partners.
- Build and manage a strong corporate prospect pipeline, prioritising organisations according to strategic fit, income potential and likelihood of conversion.
- Develop targeted acquisition strategies for priority sectors, including technology, online platforms, finance, professional services and digital safety.
- Research prospective organisations and identify relevant senior decision-makers, influencers and routes to engagement.
- Build relationships with senior corporate stakeholders and decision-makers, positioning IWF as a credible and valuable strategic partner.
- Lead pitches, presentations, proposals and negotiations to secure new corporate members and partners.
- Develop compelling propositions that clearly articulate the value of IWF membership and corporate partnership.
- Work with the Partnerships Manager and New Business Development Manager to generate new leads, introductions and opportunities.
- Develop a strong external network to generate referrals and new corporate prospects.

Membership growth and maximisation

- Drive growth in IWF's corporate membership base, with responsibility for acquisition, renewal and income maximisation.
- Develop strategies to increase the number, value and longevity of corporate memberships.
- Identify opportunities to move corporate members to higher-value levels of engagement and investment.
- Identify additional income opportunities within the existing corporate portfolio, including sponsorship, strategic partnerships, campaigns, events and other appropriate commercial opportunities.
- Develop tailored propositions and engagement packages that meet the needs of different sectors and corporate audiences.
- Ensure corporate members understand and realise the value of their relationship with IWF.

Corporate account development

- Act as a senior relationship manager for a portfolio of strategic corporate partners and members.
- Develop account plans for high-value corporate relationships, identifying opportunities for growth, increased engagement and longer-term investment.
- Build trusted relationships with senior stakeholders and act as a strategic advisor on opportunities to engage with IWF.
- Identify opportunities to deepen relationships through advocacy, campaigns, events, roundtables, thought leadership and other activities.
- Use insight into corporate priorities, ESG strategies, online safety agendas and reputational considerations to identify mutually beneficial opportunities.
- Develop cross-selling and upselling opportunities where appropriate.
- Ensure corporate relationships deliver both strong partner value and meaningful outcomes for IWF.

Corporate proposition development

- Lead the development and refinement of IWF's corporate membership and partnership propositions.
- Work with internal teams to translate IWF's expertise, data, insight and impact into compelling corporate propositions.
- Develop sector-specific packages and propositions that respond to the priorities and challenges facing different industries.

- Identify new opportunities for corporate sponsorship, commercial partnerships, events, campaigns and other income-generating activity.
- Test and refine propositions based on market feedback, conversion rates and corporate partner needs.
- Ensure propositions remain competitive, relevant and aligned with IWF's mission and values.

Stewardship and retention

- Develop and deliver tailored stewardship and engagement plans for corporate members and partners.
- Oversee high-quality corporate communications, impact reporting and recognition activity.
- Manage renewal processes proactively, identifying opportunities for multi-year commitments and increased investment.
- Coordinate corporate involvement in IWF events, campaigns and roundtables to strengthen relationships and demonstrate partner value.
- Capture feedback from corporate partners and use it to improve the membership proposition and overall corporate experience.

Income growth and performance

- Take ownership of agreed corporate income and partnership growth targets.
- Maintain accurate pipeline, forecasting and income reporting.
- Monitor key performance indicators including member conversion to partnership income growth and pipeline coverage.
- Provide regular performance and forecasting updates to the Development & Income Director.
- Identify opportunities to improve conversion, retention and income performance.
- Contribute to long-term income diversification and sustainability through growth of the corporate income stream.

Strategic and cross-organisational working

- Contribute to the development and delivery of IWF's corporate income and membership strategy.
- Work collaboratively with Communications, Hotline, Quality Assurance, Finance and other teams to develop and deliver compelling corporate opportunities.
- Bring corporate insight and market intelligence into wider organisational planning.
- Represent IWF at relevant corporate, technology, online safety and sector events.
- Identify emerging trends and opportunities that could support growth in corporate membership and income.
- Ensure all corporate partnerships are consistent with IWF's ethical standards, mission and organisational objectives.
